CURW AFFILIATION COVENANT

for Affiliates

Since its inception in 1929, the genius of Cornell United Religious Work (CURW) has been the cooperative and united work of its affiliated religious and spiritual ministry professionals. As an affiliate of CURW, I understand that my role is to serve as a part of an intentionally interfaith consortium of ministry professionals whose aim is to support the spiritual needs of Cornell's various religious student groups, which play an important role in Cornell's cocurricular program of holistic student formation. To that end, I covenant to:

1. Act in accordance with the benefits and behavioral expectations outlined in the Terms of Affiliation §III.1-2;
2. Abide by the highest standards of professional and ethical conduct, including those minimally outlined in the Terms of Affiliation §III.3; and
3. Participate in the common mission and activities of CURW as outlined in the Terms of Affiliation §IV.1-2, and support the common mission and cooperative programs on campus that serve CURW and our historical partners: Center for Transformative Action [CTA, established 1971], Committee on United States/Latin American Relations [CUSLAR, established 1965], and Durland Alternatives Library [established 1971].

In signing this covenant, I indicate my intent to serve as a CURW affiliate in accordance with all policies and procedures outlined in the Terms of Affiliation for the period that begins August 1, 2021 and ends on July 31, 2022. I acknowledge that I have received, and understand, the Terms of Affiliation. I understand that any violation of these terms may result in a review of and/or loss of affiliate status, along with its attendant privileges, in the University's sole discretion.
