An equitable funding program for student organizations that promotes collaboration, education & responsible spending.

Track 1: Beebe Lake ($250 or $500)
All new groups start here and this is where the foundation for a student organization begins. Additionally, returning organizations may choose to stay in this track based on what is best for them. Enjoy the stroll!

Track 2: Libe Slope ($1000, $1500 or $2000)
This is where the slope starts to climb and with more funding, comes more responsibility. This track is the most popular as it is home to the majority of student organizations. It combines just the right level of resources, workshops, and funding to help student organizations be successful in achieving their mission.

Track 3: McGraw Clock Tower ($4000)
As we know the clock tower is an iconic symbol of Cornell with its bells ringing throughout campus. This track has up to a $4000 spending cap and is designed for organizations that host mid-sized programs on campus. With a higher level of funding, each group needs to have a solid foundation and a strategic officer development program.

Track 4: Willard Straight Hall ($8000)
The student union was built in 1925 and is the nucleus for student engagement and community. As the student body grew, student clubs started taking a larger role in defining what it means to be involved outside the classroom. This track has the highest level of requirements and fosters intentional involvement to unlock a spending cap of $8000. Willard Straight believed in the power of collaboration and community.

To be considered for a funding track or movement for the following academic year, your organization must meet the requirements during the current academic year. The track requirements must be maintained and completed each year for evaluation by the Student Activities Funding Commission (SAFC). The size of the student organization, financial necessity, and completion of the specific requirements of a funding track all play a role in the evaluation of a student organization’s financial needs. The ultimate decision of assigning a specific track belongs to SAFC and is not guaranteed by the completion of track requirements.
